ATTACHMENT II: 2015 BUSINESS REPORT

2015 proved to be another year of turbulence driven by political uncertainty and implementation of extraordinary monetary policy in several developed economies. A significant policy divergence developed between the US Federal Reserve Bank (FED), and the European Central Bank (ECB) and Bank of Japan (BOJ), which influenced currency markets and resulted in the strengthening of the US dollar. In response to continued low inflation and persistent sluggish growth, the ECB increased the size and expanded the type of assets purchased under its Quantitative Easing (QE) program, and further reduced interest rates into negative territory. The BOJ has been pursuing a similar path for several years and has led to a significant weakening its currency. In contrast to these policies, the US Federal Reserve raised its FED funds rate by 0.25% in December, and was the first rate increase since the 2008 financial crisis. Global currency markets anticipated this move, which was preceded by a significant appreciation of US dollar in the second half of 2015. The impact of dollar strength was rapidly transmitted across emerging economies as many commodities, particularly oil and basic metals, experienced increased volatility and substantial price declines. Furthermore, global growth momentum was adversely impacted mid-year by a surprise depreciation of the RMB and subsequent equity declines on Hong Kong and mainland exchanges. The Chinese economy is plagued by excess capacity and has clearly entered an economic slowdown, and Taiwan, a country economically linked to China, was significantly affected by the volatility in Chinese equity and FX markets. The multitude of economic shocks creates many challenges for enterprises in Taiwan and necessitates adaptation to a changing business environment. Additionally, numerous Taiwanese firms possess key technologies, and are now experiencing the dual threats of competition from the “red supply chain” as well as becoming the target for merger and acquisition by their opponents. Thus, the strategic calculation of whether to compete or to merge will impact investment decisions and ultimately affect an enterprise’s long-term competitiveness, greatly increasing the operating difficulty for the corporation.

WIN has successfully adapted to the evolving business climate and is proud to report both revenue and net profit reached record highs in 2015. Although we experienced brief periods of muted demand due to supply chain inventory adjustments, we successfully optimized product mix and reduced market risk by leveraging our diversified technology portfolio. As a result, we controlled operational volatility and delivered 21% revenue growth in 2015. Moreover, in the area of corporate governance, WIN ranked in the top 5% of the first Corporate Governance Evaluation published by the Taiwan Stock Exchange in April 2015. WIN was granted the highest honor; grade A++, for the Evaluation of Information Disclosure. To earn this top grade, WIN was evaluated by the Authority in every management aspect including implementation of governance policy, emphasis on shareholders’ equity, risk management, operational transparency, and disclosure of information. Furthermore, in 2015 WIN executed a capital reduction in order to optimize our capital structure and improve return on equity, and since completion this plan has proven to achieve its desired target. All of the achievements above have gained the recognition in the equity market, and by both foreign and domestic institutional investors.

2015 operating results and 2016 outlook are reported as follows:

A. Operating Performance in 2015

3. Budget Implementation

The Company is not required to make public its 2015 financial forecast information; however, the Board of Directors approved the budget plan and the overall operating plan is in good condition.

4. Research and Development Status

Innovation has always been WIN's core competency, and our technology and talented employees being WIN's most valuable assets. To continue attracting global clients with our diversified market leading technologies, WIN has allocated considerable resources to technology innovation and advanced process development crucial for next generation applications. We believe our market leading process portfolio differentiates us from the competition and positions WIN as the industry's preferred foundry partner. The latest example of this proactive technology investment is WIN's integrated BiHEMT technology, which has now been widely adopted by tier-one handset makers and is a key component of its WiFi front-end module. This significant market share gain for WIN is derived from technology R&D launched more than 10 years ago.

WIN is one of the few GaAs foundries that provide vertically integrated manufacturing capabilities encompassing epitaxial growth, wafer fabrication, and packaging. WIN not only possesses the most advanced GaAs process and device technologies available, but also continually improves the quality control and speed of new technology development by leveraging our internal epitaxial wafer capability. Additionally, as mobile devices become thinner, our technologies must accommodate stacked assembly techniques and integration in low-profile packages. To address these market trends, WIN provides our customers in-house Copper pillar bumping services to enable flip-chip assembly techniques as well as supply chain simplification.

To address high power applications, WIN has invested in GaN technology for several years and has now commenced small-scale production. GaN technology provides the optimal solution for 4G base stations that are being deployed around the world. As the demand for mobile data continues to increase, 4G systems are moving to higher frequency bands (2.7GHz and above) and GaN provides superior bandwidth, linearity and efficiency to transmit data at these higher frequencies.

Moreover, the macro trend of increasing data consumption driven by FTTX, big data and emerging IoT devices is accelerating the rollout of higher capacity broadband networks and data center upgrades. These networks and data centers rely on fast, reliable transport of data over optical fiber, and the key transmitting and receiving components of these networks are realized by III/V compound semiconductors. WIN has content at multiple points of these networks and has achieved leadership in III/V compound semiconductor technology through continuous investment in process R&D and market development.

B. Business Plan in 2016

The smartphone market has been the largest end-market for the GaAs industry for many years and the mobile power amplifier is the single largest application for III-V semiconductors. However, mobile PA is also a highly volatile and competitive market with constant fluctuations in share allocation and periodic inventory adjustments. This market requires a high degree of operational flexibility, and investment for capacity expansion remains a challenging decision for a foundry partner who must always fulfill the shifting demands of multiple customers. WIN devotes substantial resources to understand application, customer and market trends in advance of capacity expansion to reduce risk and ensure we can meet the production demands of the industry.

After several years of volatility, WIN truly believes that the only way to reduce business risk is to diversify our end-markets and product mix. Fortunately, WIN possesses more than 15 years of R&D experience in multiple device technologies that enable us to diversify our markets beyond smartphones. With a broad technology portfolio, WIN continues to expand our business in infrastructure markets, which includes base stations, satellite communication, and fiber-optic networks. In 2015, WIN's enabling BiHEMT process has taken share in WiFi, supporting numerous products for the emerging 802.11ac standard, increasing revenue to a record high. Looking ahead in 2016, WIN remains positive on the trends of dual band RF frontend modules and MIMO for WiFi, and will remain focused on the high margin infrastructure business. We are confident that growth in revenue and net profit will continue in 2016, and have already begun the expansion of our new fab to fulfill increased customer demand.

C. Development Strategy

Although the U.S. and European economies are gradually recovering from recession while the Chinese economy is slowing down, our view of the global macroeconomic and industrial demand remains prudently optimistic. The supply and demand dynamics for the industry driven by the addressable market for IoT devices will be supportive of growth this year. This is due the migration of RF communication functions from smartphones to the field of IoT. According to market research forecasts, the number of IoT devices to be deployed is projected to reach 40 billion units. Thus, demand for RF communication components and optical devices are expected to show robust growth, insulating WIN from the impact of saturation in the smartphone market in the coming years, as the era of M2M and V2V becomes the dominant end-market.

Although global smartphone unit sales are saturating, the total output for RF components is expected to maintain healthy growth, driven by the proliferation of dual band RF front-end modules and MIMO for WiFi. This trend is now migrating from high-end devices to the mid-/low-end devices as global LTE penetration increases. Therefore, WIN will continue its focus on the development of advanced technology to diversify our end-markets, aiming at a steady increase of revenue and net profit to maximize shareholder return.

D. The Impact of the External Competitive Environment, Regulatory Environment, and Macroeconomic Environment

Competition is always one of WIN's top motivations for growth and has driven the company to a leadership position in our industry. Many competitors are emulating WIN's success by copying our technology and business model. Recently, some of these companies engaged in unlawful business practices and attempted to bribe our engineers to steal confidential technology and R&D data. These illegal behaviors make the competitive environment much more challenging. WIN is committed to take every precaution to protect our intellectual property, and continues to take a strong IP position by seeking patents for our technologies. WIN will proactively take every action necessary to meet these challenges and ensure our sustainable long-term competitiveness.
